He says he's protesting what he believes is the commodification and corporatization of education, and that he stands in solidarity with Quebec's student protesters. Condo boom blamed for traffic woes

Gridlock. Coun. David Shiner blames city transportation staff for not raising objections to proposed developments

Bayview and Sheppard is crazy, say the weary navigators of the most congested intersection in Toronto. It's ridiculous, surreal and out of control.

In peak hours it can take four red lights to get to the 401, tantalizingly visible from her nearby condo building, says Brenda Mazlow.

The driver has given up making the "impossible" left turn from Sheppard Avenue to Bayview Avenue and the 401 on-ramp. And with condo buildings popping up in the area, it's getting worse, she says.

The condominium boom is being blamed for the fact that five of the city's 10 most congested intersections are on Sheppard Avenue.

Coun. David Shiner, whose Willowdale ward has two of the busiest at Sheppard and Bayview and Sheppard and Leslie, says it's only going to worsen as more developments get approved.

"You haven't seen nothing yet," Shiner said, during discussion Thursday about the clogged intersections at council's public works and infrastructure committee.

Shiner noted that just this week, the North York community council gave its blessing to 4,000 new condo units — the latest phase in a massive 20-hectare, (50-acre) development on Sheppard between Bayview Avenue and Leslie Street.

Last month, the North York community council opposed a 2,100-unit development on Sheppard just west of Leslie Street. A final decision is expected at the Ontario Municipal Board.

Top 10 worst streets for gridlock:

1. Bayview Avenue and Sheppard Avenue E. — intersection
2. Yonge Street — Hwy. 401 to Sheppard Avenue
3. York Street — Front Street to the Gardiner Expressway
4. Sheppard Avenue W. and Allen Road
5. Leslie Street — Hwy 401 to Sheppard Avenue E.
6. Lake Shore Boulevard — York Street to Bathurst Street
7. Kennedy Road — Hwy. 401 to Sheppard Avenue E.
8. Markham Road — Hwy. 401 to Progress Avenue
9. Dufferin Street and Finch Avenue W. — intersection
10. Black Creek Drive and Lawrence Avenue W. — intersection

At Yonge and Sheppard — number two on the most congested list — a huge development is going up on the southeast corner with towers of 39 and 45 storeys and about 700 units.

Across Yonge Street, just south of Sheppard, construction of two towers of 42 and 32 storeys and 550 units is well underway in the Emerald Park development.

Only two of the 10 most congested streets in Toronto — Canada's gridlock capital — are downtown, and none of the clogged arteries have streetcar tracks. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Curvy towers take top prize

The Absolute Towers are expected to be finished this August. CONTRIBUTED

They've got her sky-high curves and international admirers. A pair of voluptuous Mississauga condo towers is now in league with Hollywood's most famous blond — as well as the world's best new skyscrapers.

The Absolute Towers — nicknamed the "Marilyn Monroe" — were awarded the prize of Best Tall Buildings in the Americas on Wednesday by Chicago-based Council on Tall Buildings and Urban Habitat, a non-profit group of architects and engineers.

Other winners included a Sydney skyscraper with a sunlit, roof-top atrium, a 40-storey "piazza" in Italy, and a tower in Abu Dhabi with a façade that rotates with the sun.

The two Mississauga buildings, one at 50 storeys and the other at 56, are part of a five-building development off Hurontario Street and Burnhamthorpe Road.

Their undulating shape is the design of young Beijing-based architect, Ma Yansong, and his firm, MAD Architects. In Toronto, Burka Architects designed the interiors alongside engineering firm Sigmund Soudak & Associates.

"I remember when it started, I couldn't sleep, because I was afraid we wouldn't get it," engineer Yury Gelman said.

Woman struck by Freightliner dies

Traffic-related. This is the 11th pedestrian to die on city streets this year, compared to 7 at the same time in 2011

A 34-year-old construction worker heard a "loud thump" at about 7:40 a.m. Thursday, and turned around toward the intersection of Adelaide Street West and Brant Street.

Nat Armogida saw a five-ton Freightliner truck with the logo Coast Paper in the intersection and thought it had hit a light pole.

When he got closer, he saw a woman underneath bleeding badly. Armogida called 911 and rushed to the truck.

The woman was conscious. He heard her moaning and her eyes were open.

"She knew what was going on," Armogida said. "She was still conscious so I thought there was a chance."

Armogida grabbed a blanket from someone and placed it on the woman. The 911 operator was feeding him directions on how to comfort the woman.

Meanwhile, a doctor driving to work stopped to tend to the victim. "We were telling her to stay calm and not move around too much," Armogida said.

Emergency services arrived soon, but the 30-year-old woman died later in hospital.

"I feel really bad for her and her family, and for the driver himself because he was shaken up," Armogida said.

The 46-year-old truck driver, who was experienced with a long and excellent record, was interviewed by police and no charges have been laid.

Armogida said the emotional trucker told him: "I didn't see her, I didn't see her."

A large pool of blood was visible on Brant Street, and police saw damage to the left front side of the truck.

Police and the reconstruction team were on site until noon, gathering evidence and witness statements. Police have also secured video from a nearby business.

This was the third collision involving a pedestrian in three days. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Investigation

- Factors. Police will determine if sun was a factor for the driver, who was travelling eastbound. There were no visible skid marks.
- Theory. Police think the woman was struck on her right side. They will determine if she was on her cellphone or otherwise distracted.
- Speed. Police must determine the truck's speed and whether the driver was turning on a green, yellow or red light.

Waterfront T.O's transit plan 'a joke': Developer

No streetcars. City agency head says if you don't build it, they will stay in their cars

Developers on the East Bayfront, including George Brown and the Corus building, say they were promised a streetcar but Waterfront Toronto says there's no money for one. RANDY RISLING/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

It's supposed to be a lakeside jewel of sustainability where thousands of residents and workers won't need a car to access the city from their waterfront condos and offices.

But Toronto's failure to deliver the streetcar promised along Queens Quay east of Yonge St. is a growing concern among developers and politicians who say it threatens the future success of the east lakeshore communities.

Castlepoint Realty president Alfredo Romano says Waterfront Toronto's plan to boost TTC bus service while it waits to build a streetcar "is a joke."

"How can you convince the investment community to believe in your acceleration of the Port Lands when you can't even get the transit to Cherry Street?" he said.

Councillor Pam McConnell (Toronto Centre-Rosedale) said developers are "apoplectic" about the lack of an East Bayfront light rail line. On Wednesday, she persuaded East York Community Council to ask the city to make waterfront transit a funding priority.

"We'll have 10,000 people down there in a few years and we'd better have a way to transport them," she said. "We have many developers who are in the process of final planning or land acquisition and they were promised there would be rapid transit. You can't build neighbourhoods that are divorced from the transportation system."

Waterfront Toronto has hired a consultant to look at eight potential "interim" transit solutions for the next five to 15 years until there are more people living and working on the waterfront.

President John Campbell said a streetcar line has turned out to be about three times more expensive than the $90 million budgeted. He's willing to spend that money now, however, if the investment lays the foundation for light rail later when the need will be greater. Dedicated bus lanes, for example, would preserve space for a streetcar right-of-way.

Campbell stressed, however, that the sustainability agenda of the new waterfront communities and their ability to attract jobs depends on transit. Toronto tends to wait until there's a demand before it adds service.

"If you wait for three or four years for demand to build up, people have already established their habits and you can't get them out of the car. What we want to do is get transit in there very early so people don't buy a parking spot. On the commercial side it makes it harder to lease. There's no doubt about it. One of our objectives is to bring jobs down here," said Campbell.

A strong connection to the subway is critical when developers are trying to build communities that aren't car dependent, said Castlepoint's Romano.

Waterfront Toronto should put a streetcar connection at street level at Union Station or connect it to the PATH if there's no money to tunnel another portal to Queens Quay east of Yonge St., he said.

"There's nothing terribly wrong with buses except you're creating a high density environment that calls for this kind of transit to move 4,000 to 5,000 people an hour and buses can't do that without creating havoc."

Convocation

'I hereby renounce this degree': U of T almost-grad

In a sea of smiling, young faces and black graduation robes at Thursday's University of Toronto Convocation Hall ceremonies, one person stood out: the serious young man with the red, floppy brimmed hat, long brown hair and red square pinned to his gown.

He stood out even more when he advanced toward the podium and had words with a marshal who wanted to know why he was carrying a sign that said "no" and suggested he not go further with it.

But after a few awkward seconds, while the announcer waited for the small drama to be played out, the young man's name was announced and Michael Vipperman went up to the podium, where various U of T officials and other dignitaries were seated. He turned and faced the audience, held up his "no" sign and said, "I hereby renounce this degree."

The 26-year-old also handed out pamphlets to a few people on the podium explaining why he was rejecting his honours bachelor of arts degree and left the stage.

Vipperman, who grew up in Toronto, said he stands in solidarity with "the courageous students of Quebec" and their fight for accessible education, the right to protest, and against corruption in government He said university education is becoming elitist with "only certain people able to afford it."

"Education is being treated like a product, a commodity. Education should be an ongoing process rather than a product which can be sold or received."

Afterwards, he told the Star he also believes it's wrong for the University of Toronto to have a close relationship with certain "venomous institutions."

When asked for comment after the convocation, Vipperman's mom, Deborah, smiled and said, "I love my kid."

Up 41 per cent. Groups vow to fight TDSB fees

Community groups that use schools after hours say a whopping 41-per-cent increase in fees approved by the Toronto District School Board threatens affordable sports and activities for city youth.

And they vow to fight the hike as they did with the City of Toronto, which also sought to bump up permit fees. Council eventually put off the hike for a year and agreed to consult with sports groups.

"Our group is very affected," said Dragan Zagar, who is president and a founder of the East York Soccer Club, which serves 2,500 kids. "We put up a big fight (with the city), all the groups together," Zagar added. "We stopped it for this year, and we'll probably do the same thing for the school board."

With the city sure to increase fees next year, and the Toronto board's hike — which comes into effect in January — it's a double whammy.

Even with the hikes, the board still hasn't covered its costs for after-hours use and maintenance of its properties.

Locals fear runway extension

Angry residents of the western waterfront are questioning whether a proposal to dump excavated rock and debris into the harbour off Billy Bishop Toronto City Airport is really a "ploy" to extend the runway.

At a public meeting on Thursday night, they accused the Toronto Port Authority of having ulterior motives behind a proposal to dump rock and sediment, excavated in the construction of a pedestrian tunnel into the water.

"There is a great deal of skepticism about why you're putting infill in the lake. There is great concern that extending the runway is the background ploy," resident Pam Mazza charged.

Ken Lundy, director of infrastructure planning for the port authority, tried to assuage the concerns of about 50 people gathered at the Radisson Admiral Hotel, insisting there is no such plan.

"The Toronto Port Authority has absolutely no intention of expanding the runway," he said.

Rather, the intention is to create a physical deterrent so boats don't get too close to the airport while at the same time taking advantage of excess material from the tunnel, Lundy said.

As well, if the material was put into the lake, it wouldn't have to be trucked out and dumped elsewhere, Lundy added.

But the crowd wasn't buying it and pointed out that there are already buoys marking the no-go zone close to the airport.

Resident after resident said they didn't trust the authority because it has a track record of not being straight with them.

Tories, Grits at odds over Ornge

Ontario's Progressive Conservatives are playing a dangerous game of political brinkmanship by threatening to cut off funding to the Ornge air ambulance service, the Liberal government charged Thursday.

The Tories moved a motion to stop funding Ornge if the Liberals won't agree to a select committee to look into a long-running scandal at the air ambulance service, which set up a confusing web of spin off companies and hid huge salaries from public disclosure. Health Minister Deb Matthews accused the Tories of playing politics with people's lives by threatening to cut funding to air ambulances. THE CANADIAN PRESS

McGuinty threatens election

Budget bill. Tories, NDP voted to 'gut' Liberal budget, premier says

A calm end to the spring legislative session at noon Thursday erupted into threats of an election from Premier Dalton McGuinty by the end of the day after the Tories and NDP combined to force changes to the government's budget bill.

After sitting a week longer than planned, the legislature adjourned with an agreement the politicians would return next Wednesday for the vote on the Liberal's budget, which the NDP said they would support to avoid defeating the minority government.

But hours later in committee, the Conservatives and New Democrats started outvoting the Liberals to pass opposition party amendments and — in McGuinty's words — "gut the government's budget bill."

The NDP "turned their backs" on their agreement to support the budget in exchange for a tax on incomes over $500,000, and other changes the Liberals made earlier, McGuinty said in a late-day statement.

"The consequences of the NDP's latest backtrack would hurt our economy when what it needs most is stability and certainty," he said.

"(NDP Leader) Andrea Horwath and her party have, for the second time, broken their word about passing this budget."

Horwath said she warned McGuinty from the start the NDP still wanted changes in the budget, adding she was "disappointed" the premier is threatening an election.

"When discussing the Ontario budget with the premier, I made it clear that I would not rubber stamp the government's 300-page omnibus bill," Horwath said in a statement.

"I made a commitment to ensure passage of the budget and I will keep my word. I also made a commitment to the people ... to make that bill better at the committee stage. I expect the premier to keep his word."

If the government can't pass the budget as the Liberals and NDP originally agreed, the premier will "take it to the people in a general election," added McGuinty.

"Otherwise, Andrea Horwath breaking her word a second time at this late stage has left us with absolutely no choice — we will be forced to take this to the people." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teachers may cut school in protest

Ontario's elementary teachers are considering a day of protest — on a school day — should the Liberal government legislate a wage freeze and major cuts to their benefits in the fall.

Sam Hammond, president of the Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario, told the Star that teachers in every school in Ontario have been voting over the past two weeks on the idea for "a day of protest. A political protest if the Liberal government were to go ahead at any point with legislation that would freeze salaries and enact the parameters they've put on the table."

Results of the vote will be available next week, and Hammond stressed it's one of a number of strategies the teachers could use in their escalating dispute with the province.

The elementary teachers' union has walked away from provincial contract talks, but other unions remain at the table. Current agreements expire in August. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

City in bind over shattered glass

As yet another glass balcony shatters on a Toronto condo tower, city officials say they need the province's help to ensure public safety.

"We don't have any power" until after a glass panel breaks, said Ann Borooah, Toronto's chief building official. She noted Ontario's building code doesn't allow the city to force inspections of glass balconies before that happens.

Police blocked off an area on Simcoe Street near Richmond Street around 6:30 p.m. Wednesday after a balcony shattered on the 25th floor of a condo building. The glass hit parked cars below, but no one was injured. City inspectors arrived by 7:30 p.m.

Since last summer, glass balconies have shattered at 13 different buildings in the city. No changes in law have been made since then.

The timing of the Simcoe Street incident couldn't be worse, coming on the heels of a city report urging the province to make an emergency interim amendment to the building code based on recommendations from an expert advisory panel.

That panel, organized by the province, tabled recommendations on changes to balcony construction last week, but the report has yet to be made public.

The Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing won't say if or when the building code will be changed. The province is reviewing the recommendations and the expert panel's report will be released in the near future, a ministry spokesperson said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Russia's It Girl joins protesters

Shift. Russian Socialite first shunned by activists due to ties to Putin

"I'm Ksenia Sobchak, and I've got something to lose. But I'm here." That's what the 30-year-old blond socialite and TV personality said when she began her unlikely foray into political activism by taking the stage at a huge anti-Putin rally in December.

It was a shaky start. Sobchak was greeted with jeers and boos from protesters, who derided her as a rich party girl and were suspicious of her motives because of her family's close personal ties to Vladimir Putin. Six months later, Sobchak has been accepted into the ranks of Russia's protest leaders, completing a transformation that reflects the civic awakening of millions of young Russians after a decade of political passivity. Young Internet-savvy office workers, students and members of what is known as the "creative class" form the heart of the protest movement that has drawn tens of thousands onto the streets of Moscow since a December parliamentary election was won by Putin's party with what observers said was widespread fraud.

Putin has taken a tougher approach toward the opposition since returning to the presidency in May. While hundreds of demonstrators have been detained over the past month, Sobchak found out only this week that she does indeed have something to lose. Her apartment was among the homes of protest leaders that were raided by police. They read her personal correspondence, seized her passport — and confiscated at least one million euros ($1.3 million) in cash.

Russian official accused of death threat

Russia's top investigator denied Thursday that he threatened to kill an investigative reporter over a story that lambasted his agency, but apologized for an "emotional outburst" with the journalist.

Novaya Gazeta, Russia's leading investigative publication, claimed Wednesday that Investigative Committee chief Gen. Col. Alexander Bastrykin took reporter Sergei Sokolov to a forest outside Moscow where he threatened to kill him and then joked that he would lead the investigation into his death.

The alleged June 4 incident followed Sokolov's story that accused Bastrykin's agency of failing to punish the perpetrator of a 2010 killing of 12 people, including four children, by a gang in southern Russia.

Bastrykin said he had a "very emotional conversation" with Sokolov. But the conversation did not take place in a forest, he insisted.

Battered woman defence could include hiring hit-men

Supreme Court. 2008 Nova Scotia case could reshape defence for abused spouses

Nicole Ryan had just been arrested and locked up for trying to hire a hit man to kill her abusive husband — and she couldn't believe her good fortune.

Caught by an undercover RCMP officer in March 2008, Ryan was subjected to a court-ordered psychiatric assessment at the Nova Scotia Hospital. Her young daughter was in protective custody and safe from her father — a man who had threatened to kill them both.

"I felt very safe ... I could almost say that I was treated like a queen," she recalled at her trial, where she was ultimately acquitted of counselling to commit murder.

"I asked the doctor if I could stay longer, but I was not permitted to stay longer. I got the chance and the opportunity to ... to breathe, to calm down ... and find Nicole."

On Thursday, the Supreme Court of Canada embarked on its own formidable search: determining whether the battered woman's defence should be expanded to include the hiring of a hit man to kill an abusive spouse.

The Supreme Court heard arguments in the emotionally-charged case, and when it issues a ruling — possibly as early as this fall — it could reshape the landmark defence for abused women that it already established in a 1990 decision.

The Nova Scotia Court of Appeal upheld Ryan's acquittal in 2010.

A full panel of nine Supreme Court justices heard competing arguments over the merits of two different criminal law defences at play in Ryan's case that can allow an accused person to be acquitted of a crime — that they acted in self-defence or that they were acting under duress.

Courtroom drama

Chief Justice Beverley McLachlin had a sharp exchange with prosecutor William Delaney over whether the facts of Ryan's case could be adapted to fit the Criminal Code definition of self-defence, under which the battered woman's defence falls.

- "Why is it not open to us to say self-defence was available, take the findings of fact of the trial judge, apply the law to those findings of fact and give the remedy accordingly?" McLachlin said in response to Delaney's doubts.

Charest says he's 'had enough'

Premier Jean Charest is angry at organizers of a Fête nationale party, whom he accuses of ruining the spirit of Quebec's June 24 holiday with an irresponsible programming choice.

He's upset they have invited a rock band whose lyrics make insulting or threatening references to certain politicians, namely those who tend to be more conservative.

It's the same anarchist rock band whose promotional art shows a likeness of the premier dead, at the feet of Quebec solidaire politician Amir Khadir.

The premier says he's had enough.

He says in the last few months, during the student protests, too many people in Quebec have been trivializing violence, and it's becoming disturbing.

"We've been seeing a phenomenon in Quebec for a few months that is sad and troubling," Charest told reporters Thursday in Quebec City.

He said the June 24 Fete nationale belongs to all Quebecers and shouldn't carry political overtones that pit one Quebecer against another.

The event frequently does get infused with politics, as artists performing at the event and its hosts often show their pro-independence stripes.

This year, the band Mise En Demeure was invited to the Quebec City party on the Plains of Abraham. The band has reportedly pulled out of the event amid the controversy, and is expected to address the media.

Parliament Hill.

Flaherty accuses NDP of stalling as opposition gets comfortable for marathon voting session

The two sleep-deprived sides of the House of Commons kept vigilant watch on each other Thursday as bleary-eyed MPs stood up and sat down over and over again, their 24-hour marathon voting session pushing past the halfway mark.

"I've got to get myself comfy — off come the shoes," said New Democrat MP Glenn Thibeault, describing one of the many ways MPs sought comfort through the 12th hour of voting on more than 800 amendments to Bill C-38.

Members of Parliament bobbed from their seats through the night and into the afternoon as they voted on 871 opposition motions that are designed to thwart, or at least publicize, the Harper government's sprawling omnibus budget-implementation bill.

Liberal House leader Marc Garneau's best guess for when the voting would finally be over? Likely 1 a.m. Friday morning, he said — 24 hours after it began.

The long haul seemed to have taken a toll on Finance Minister Jim Flaherty. He was waspish in his comments about the opposition's efforts to delay passage of his budget bill.

"This is not a time for gamesmanship," Flaherty said.

"This is a serious time in which we need to protect Canada and advance our economic agenda ... and we'll do whatever we have to do today and tonight and in the early hours of tomorrow morning to get the job done."

NDP House leader Nathan Cullen had tried to win unanimous consent to hold question period at the regular time, only to be shouted down from the government benches.

Flaherty was scornful of Cullen's gambit, saying the NDP wasted several hours before voting even began and were deliberately taking their time getting to their feet during each individual vote.

Cullen, meanwhile, wasn't surprised his motion for question period was shouted down.

"The government doesn't really like question period all that much," he said. "Something about being held to account."

The legislation contains a bewildering maze of changes to dozens of statutes. Critics say such omnibus bills amount to a massive abuse of Parliament — an argument a young Stephen Harper once made with some conviction as a Reform MP. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Court approves release of secret Boy Scout files

Suspected molesters. BSA fought to keep documents sealed but judge ruled they should be made public

A court in the U.S. has approved the release of so-called "perversion files" compiled by the Boy Scouts of America on suspected child molesters within the organization over two decades.

This will give the public its first chance to review the files on 1,200 people.

The files gathered from 1965 to 1985 came to light when they were used as evidence in a landmark Oregon ruling in 2010 that the Scouts had failed to protect a plaintiff who had been molested by an assistant scoutmaster in the early 1980s.

The Scouts were ordered to pay the man $18.5 million US.

The case drew attention to the organization's efforts to keep child molesters out of its leadership ranks.

In recent years, the Boy Scouts have faced numerous lawsuits from men who say they were molested as children by scout leaders.

The Boy Scouts fought to keep the files sealed, arguing that opening them could unfairly affect those who were suspected but never convicted of abuse.

Media organizations challenged the Scouts' efforts to keep the files under seal, arguing that their introduction by attorneys in the suit makes them public record. A judge agreed.

The files are part of a larger trove of documents the Boy Scouts began compiling several decades ago on people flagged as possible molesters. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ottawa. Mom of suspected pimp fears daughter is dead

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Ottawa

The mother of a 17-year-old pimping suspect Ottawa police are searching for says she is also trying to find her daughter, who she fears has been killed.

"Either she went into hiding or she has been killed. That is what I want to know. Where is my daughter? Are the police of Ottawa doing their job?" the woman said emotionally when reached by phone Thursday.

Police allege the woman's daughter and two 15-year-olds forced three teen girls into prostitution. The 15-year-olds are in custody facing serious charges including assault and human trafficking.

Police have not yet released the 17-year-old's name to the public, though under the Youth Criminal Justice Act they may apply for permission to temporarily release her name in order to find her.

"If the police were doing their job they would have found where my daughter is," the woman said. "She is just a child.

"What does she eat? Where does she sleep?" she asked. "(Name withheld) is a little girl. I lost my little girl. She is a nice girl. She is not mentally ill. She is not a crackhead."

The woman said her daughter "hasn't done anything" but is being "blamed" by the police.

The woman, who cannot be named, suggested Quebec police are also searching for her daughter and said they are doing a better job.

"F— you for the police. F— you for the journalist," she said.

Air India bombing. Reyat to appeal record perjury sentence of nine years

An Air India bomber who received Canada's longest perjury sentence is appealing the conviction in a Vancouver court.

Inderjit Singh Reyat was handed a nine-year prison sentence last year for lying repeatedly at the 2003 trial of two men charged with mass murder and conspiracy.

Reyat was a Crown witness at the trial of Ripudaman Singh Malik and Ajaib Singh Bagri, who were acquitted in the biggest case of aviation terrorism before the 9-11 attacks.

Reyat's testimony was part of a deal that saw him plead guilty to manslaughter in the deaths of 329 people aboard Air India Flight 182 in 1985.

He'd already served a 10-year sentence for the same-day deaths of two Tokyo baggage handlers who were killed when a bomb-laden suitcase meant for another Air India plane exploded prematurely. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Disaster

Air India Flight 182 was allegedly bombed by Sikh rebels on June 23, 1985, killing 329 people on board

- One conviction: Despite a $130 million investigation and trial, Inderjit Singh Reyat was the only person convicted.

Killer judge

Delisle guilty of 1st-degree murder

Jacques Delisle, believed to be the first Canadian judge to ever stand trial for murder, was found guilty in the first-degree killing of his invalid wife.

Now that a jury has found that he shot his wife, Marie-Nicole Rainville, in the head with a pistol, the 77-year-old retired judge will automatically receive the sternest possible sentence in the Criminal Code: life in prison, with no possibility of parole for 25 years. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seeks compensation. Victim Massicotte claims attack left her and daughters fearful, humiliated, depressed and even suicidal

Convicted murderer Russell Williams is denying that a woman he tied up and sexually assaulted is entitled to compensation from him for pain and suffering.

In a statement of defence to a lawsuit launched by Laurie Massicotte in Belleville, Ont., Williams says she will have to prove her claims in court.

And he wants her to pay for his bills to fight her lawsuit.

Massicotte, who has chosen to reveal her identity and speak about her ordeal, filed a nearly $7 million lawsuit in September against Williams.

The attack left her fearful, humiliated, depressed, suicidal, unable to function in society and she will require extensive therapy, Massicotte said in her statement of claim.

Williams broke into her house on Sept. 29, 2009, hit her over the head, tied her up, sexually assaulted her and took pornographic pictures, according to Massicotte.

The former colonel pleaded guilty to the attack on Massicotte, admitting to those facts in court in October 2010.

For the purposes of the lawsuit Williams' statement of defence challenges Massicotte to a burden of "strict proof" of her claims about the attack and resulting anguish. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hardly open and shut

Both parties named in Massicotte's suit are launching their defences

- Williams' defence team maintains Massicotte must prove she's suffering as a direct result of his attack.
- The province claims it did not have a duty to warn Massicotte of Williams' series of break ins.

Sanctions lifted. Coke poised for rapid return to Myanmar market

The Coca-Cola Co. plans to start selling its drinks in Myanmar for the first time in 60 years, following the U.S. government's decision to suspend sanctions on the country for its democratic reforms.

Myanmar is one of three countries where Coca-Cola doesn't do business.

The other two are Cuba and North Korea.

The world's biggest soft drink maker said Thursday it will start doing business in the country as soon as the U.S. government issues a license allowing American companies to make such investments.

The U.S. announced last month that it was suspending restrictions on American investments in the Southeast Asian country, which is still easing toward democracy. Until last year, Myanmar had been led by an oppressive military junta.

Coca-Cola said its products will initially be imported from neighbouring countries as it establishes local operations in Myanmar; the company notes that it has a history of being the among the first to enter or re-enter markets. In 1949, Coca-Cola and other foreign companies were expelled from China. After relations were established again in 1979, Coke was back. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cokeless lands? Only two

As part of its push in Myanmar, Coca-Cola said it is donating $3 million to support job creation for women in the country. The company will work with PACT, a non-governmental group that supports economic and health initiatives in developing nations.

- Coke says Cuba was one of the first countries where it did business, opening operations in the nation in 1906. But after the Cuban Revolution the company exited in 1960.
- Coke has never operated in North Korea; Coke products there or in Cuba are from third parties.

A seven-year-old female elephant, Ganga, owned by a Buddhist temple, is prompted to bow down to Buddha's statue at a temple in Colombo, Sri Lanka. Tame elephants traditionally have an important role in the Island's Buddhist customs and are considered a status symbol. Does loyalty mean better insurance rates?

Drivers should look past loyalty as a means to saving money.

Many drivers assume that staying with the same insurance company for a long period of time leads to the best car insurance rates. While this may be true for some people who have a good driving profile and obtain loyalty discounts, it is not always the case. The rates charged by different insurance companies to insure the same driver, with the same car, for the exact same coverage, can vary by hundreds and even thousands of dollars. And with so many insurance companies providing car insurance in Ontario, odds are you are not currently insured with the company that offers the best rate for your driving profile.

One of the ways insurance companies try to keep customers around is by offering perks to loyal customers. Often insurance customers believe that by looking for a new insurance policy they will wind up paying more since they'll have to forfeit any loyalty discounts and perks they have earned. In many cases, however, a lower rate with another insurance company could save you money because the rate difference offsets any earned loyalty rewards from your current company. There is no risk to taking some time to shop around and get insurance quotes. And your current insurer will not know that you are looking, unless you tell them. Comparing car insurance quotes will give you a better idea of how your current rate stacks up in comparison with what is available at another company.

Insurance quoting sites like InsuranceHotline.com can help by providing an independent, unbiased rate comparison from a network of over 30 insurance companies to find you a lower rate available for your profile.

You don't owe loyalty to your insurance provider. You owe money.

And possibly too much.

Your loyalty discount may not save you as much as you think. Insurance rates can vary by hundreds, even thousands of dollars. But InsuranceHotline.com will always provide the lowest rates available within our network of over 30 premier insurance companies.

Visit InsuranceHotline.com today and experience a fast, free and easy service that's loyal to your wallet, not your insurance provider.

MDMA. Ecstasy can be 'safe' if consumed responsibly, says B.C. health officer

B.C.'s top health official says taking pure ecstasy can be "safe" when consumed responsibly by adults, despite warnings by police in Alberta and British Columbia about the dangers of the street drug after a rash of deaths.

Dr. Perry Kendall asserts the risks of MDMA — the substance once synonymous with ecstasy — are overblown, and that dangers only arise when the man-made chemical is polluted by money-hungry gangs who cook it up.

That's why the chief provincial health officer is suggesting the risks of black market MDMA could be mitigated, for example, if it were legalized and sold through licensed, government-run stores where the product is strictly regulated from assembly line to check-out.

He took issue with a story by The Canadian Press Thursday that characterized him as advocating legalization, saying that isn't his position.

"I am quite a strong critic of prohibition because I don't think it keeps drugs out of the hands of vulnerable people and I don't think it does much to reduce harmful use and I think it has other harmful effects like putting billions of dollars into the hands of criminal enterprises," Kendall said late Thursday. Deaths

- At least 16 people from B.C. to Saskatchewan have died since last July from a tainted batch of ecstasy they obtained from criminal dealers, the only way an average person can acquire the drug in Canada. It was cut with a toxin called PMMA.
- Police say an average of 20 British Columbians who consume street ecstasy die each year.

Coexist. Cougars spreading across U.S. Midwest after being nearly wiped out

Cougars are again spreading across the U.S. Midwest a century after they were hunted to near extinction in much of the region, a new study says.

The findings, detailed in The Journal of Wildlife Management, showed 178 cougar confirmations in the Midwest and as far south as Texas between 1990 and 2008.

Researchers said the study poses fresh questions about how humans and livestock can coexist with the re-emerging predators, who have made startling appearances in recent years in downtown Santa Monica, Calif., and even in a Chicago alley.

Wildlife officials have said it's unclear how many of the animals may be in the Midwest, where they are not federally protected and, in some states, can be hunted.

"We (now) know there are a heck of a lot more cougars running around the Midwest than in 1990," said Clay Nielsen, a Southern Illinois University wildlife ecologist who co-authored the report while heading the non-profit Cougar Network's research. "We've got an interesting and compelling picture to talk about now. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Killer's mental state likened to delusions of 'new Napoleons'

Norway massacre. Breivik's sanity is key to the case, and is still an unresolved issue

The psychiatrists who have faced intense criticism for deeming Anders Behring Breivik — the self-confessed killer of 77 people in Norway last year — too mentally unfit to go to prison defended their stance Thursday, calling him delusional.

Torgeir Husby and Synne Soerheim, who concluded that Breivik suffers from paranoid schizophrenia, stuck to their findings when presenting their 239-page report on the right-wing extremist's mental health to the court. They insisted he is driven by delusions rather than political conviction, saying he resembled people who believe they are the new Napoleon.

"One doesn't go collecting expertise in historical facts if a new Napoleon is admitted (to a clinic), not even if he arrives in full uniform," Husby said.

Anders Behring Breivik
HEIKO JUNGE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Their report came under fire for lacking knowledge of right-wing terminology and for interpreting Breivik's political explanations for his rampage as symptoms of schizophrenia. The court then ordered a second evaluation by other psychiatrists, who came to the opposite conclusion, deeming him sufficiently mentally competent to go to prison.

Breivik's sanity is key to the case and is still an unresolved issue. If found guilty and sane, the 33-year-old Norwegian would face 21 years in prison, although he could be held even longer if deemed a danger to society. If declared insane, he would be committed to compulsory psychiatric care. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Good vs. evil

Hutterite leaders blast documentary

American Colony. Anabaptist leaders upset with National Geographic production

A TV documentary series about an Anabaptist community in Montana offers a "distorted" and contrived image, bishops representing the Hutterite faith in the U.S. and Canada said Thursday.

John Stahl, Peter Entz and John Waldner, bishops for the three sects encompassing the roughly 50,000 Hutterites and 500 colonies in North America, said in a joint statement they are "deeply disappointed" in National Geographic Channel's American Colony: Meet the Hutterites.

The 10-part series that began airing last month promised a rare inside look at Hutterite colony life, focusing on the King Ranch Colony.

Why the clergy hated it

"... A distorted and exploitative version of Hutterite life."

Hutterite bishops John Stahl, Peter Entz and John Waldner make a joint statement concerning the portrayal of their communities in a new 10-part television series.

The bishops accused producers of contriving scenes and dialogue in a "make believe" portrayal of "how we live and the spiritual beliefs we cherish."

The channel and the production company were reviewing the bishops' joint statement Thursday and did not have an immediate comment.

Members of the King Ranch commune are depicted as drinking alcoholic beverages and cursing. Some parents are shown questioning their faith's tenets, while a restless teenager flouts rules on dress and dating. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Hell on earth.' Judges tour Zimbabwe's infamous jail

Zimbabwe's top judges visited a notorious Harare jail Thursday after receiving complaints that it is filthy, ill-equipped and uninhabitable, but a rights activist and reporters who joined the tour said the cells had apparently been cleaned up just in time for the jurists' arrival.

The five Supreme Court judges toured the main Harare police station cells and said they will rule later on whether to close down the cells because conditions are inhumane, in a suit brought by members of Women of Zimbabwe Arise, a group founded to champion women's issues.

The group's members have been arrested after demonstrations that featured rattling pots and pans to call attention to food shortages, or handing out red roses on Valentine's Day to protest domestic and political violence.

The judges inspected only three dimly-lit cells with six concrete beds and no mattresses. Dozens more cells remained locked.

Cellblock makeover

"These were not the conditions we were detained in."

Jenni Williams, founder of Women of Zimbabwe Arise, reacts to improved conditions of prisoner cells during Thursday's tour of the Harare jail

Reporters with the judges say the usually overcrowded cells were empty and appeared to have been cleaned.

Williams said she and three other activists who filed the suit were once detained in a cell "filled with pools of urine and littered with feces and condoms." She said they were given frayed, foul-smelling blankets that were inadequate on cold stone floors. Fresh water was unavailable and jail authorities provided no food for prisoners, who relied on supplies from relatives.

"It was hell on earth, it was torture — all because we were demanding our rights," Williams said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

30th Anniversary

Remembering the Falklands War

Falkland Islanders are celebrating the 30-year anniversary of the day British troops forced Argentina to give up its occupation.

Amid heavy snowfall, about 350 people followed a military parade down Stanley's Ross Road to Liberation Monument where the sacrifices of British soldiers were honoured.

Britain's Latin America Minister Jeremy Browne laid a wreath, as did the islands' British Gov. Nigel Haywood and legislative assembly member Jan Cheek.

Argentina still claims the islands are part of its national territory, but Browne said in an interview on Falklands Radio that islanders alone must determine their future. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Foxconn employee jumps to his death

A Foxconn Technology Group employee jumped to his death Wednesday from a company-rented apartment building in southwest China's Sichuan province, local police said.

At least a dozen Foxconn employees have jumped to their deaths or tried to do so since 2010, casting spotlight on the world's largest contract maker of electronics. The Taiwan-based company has been besieged with reports of poor working and living conditions for its workers at factories and dorms.

A public security bureau in Chengdu city identifies the employee only by the surname Xie and says the cause remains under investigation. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An Egyptian boy peers out of barbed wire, his face painted with the number 25, the date of the Egyptian revolution, during a protest in front of the Supreme Constitutional Court in Cairo, Egypt, on Thursday. Egyptian court helps generals strengthen their grip on power

Presidential runoff. Eligibility ruling is a 'full-fledged coup': Islamist Brotherhood

Judges appointed by Hosni Mubarak dissolved Egypt's Islamist-dominated parliament Thursday and ruled his former prime minister eligible for the presidential runoff election this weekend — setting the stage for the military and remnants of the old regime to stay in power.

The politically charged rulings dealt a heavy blow to the fundamentalist Islamic Brotherhood, with one senior member calling the decision a "full-fledged coup," and the group vowed to rally the public against the military.

The decision by the Supreme Constitutional Court effectively erased the tenuous progress from Egypt's troubled transition in the past year, leaving the country with no parliament and concentrating power even more firmly in the hands of the generals who took over from Mubarak.

Several hundred people gathered in Cairo's Tahrir Square after the rulings to denounce the action and rally against former Prime Minister Ahmed Shafiq, the presidential candidate seen by critics as a symbol of Mubarak's autocratic rule. But with no calls by the Brotherhood or other groups for massive demonstrations, the crowd did not grow.

Military might

- Activists who engineered Egypt's uprising have long suspected the generals would try to cling to power, explaining that after 60 years as the nation's single most dominant institution, the military would be reluctant to surrender its authority or leave its economic empire to civilian scrutiny.

Video purports to show police kidnapping murder victims

Corruption. Gunmen with officers could belong to the Jalisco New Generation drug gang: Investigators

There it was on video: Five heavily armed policemen barge into a hotel in Lagos de Moreno, western Mexico, before dawn on Jan. 20 and march out with three handcuffed men in underwear.

But police weren't making an arrest. Prosecutors say they apparently were taking orders from criminals. Just hours after the three were seized, they were found asphyxiated and beaten to death.

Mexicans have become inured to lurid tales of police collaboration with narcotics gangs during 5 1/2 years of a drug war that has cost more than 47,500 lives. But seldom can they actually see it occur, and the video broadcast on national television was a shocker.

"One assumes that in some cities ... the municipal police work for the drug cartels," said Jorge Chabat an expert on security and drug trafficking at the Center for Economic Research and Teaching. "But what is different here is that there is a video. It's not the same thing to imagine that this (is) going on, and to see it."

The officers were not detained until June 6 and they still have not been formally charged with any crime. "It took time to obtain the video tapes, to do the investigation, and to get the arrest warrants," said Jalisco state prosecutor's spokesman Lino Gonzalez.

The video comes less than three weeks before national and state elections in which security is a major issue. Critics accuse President Felipe Calderon of setting off a bloodbath with his strategy against gangs, while his party's presidential candidate, Josefina Vazquez, has suggested her opponents are ready to compromise with the cartels. Aghanistan. Landslide victims buried alive to be left where their bodies lie

Afghan officials say they are halting efforts to dig out more than 60 bodies from the site of a devastating landslide that followed earthquakes in northern Afghanistan earlier this week. They plan to make the area a memorial to the dead.

The government has said 71 people were buried in Monday's landslide, but the police chief of Baghlan province's Burka district says they have pulled out only five bodies in four days of digging.

He says that religious leaders in the area recommended that they leave the bodies buried under the hill and rename it "Martyrs Hill."

Police Chief Azizullahrahman said Thursday that more than 800 people helped with the effort to dig out the bodies of the victims.

Two earthquakes struck the area early Monday, causing the landslide.

RIM pays former co-CEOs $12M

Research in Motion. BlackBerry maker giving ex-leader Jim Balsillie $8M and Mike Lazaridis, who remains on the RIM board, $4M

The former co-CEOs of BlackBerry-maker Research in Motion will receive a combined $12 million in payouts for leaving their roles at the struggling company.

In a document filed with securities regulators on Thursday, ahead of the company's annual meeting in July, RIM outlined the details of what each former executive receives.

Jim Balsillie will be paid nearly $8 million in salary and other compensation after stepping down as leader in January and leaving the company two months later.

Mike Lazaridis, who remains a member of the board, will be paid about $4 million in salary and compensation under the condition that he will "continue to make himself reasonably available" to help the company in the future.

The deal also gives Lazaridis his own office, executive assistant, as well as a car and driver for two years, at a combined value of about $733,000.

RIM says in the filings that Balsillie and Lazaridis "revolutionized the worldwide wireless industry with the introduction of the BlackBerry and forever changed how the world communicates."

The company has seen its stock plummet and its financial results significantly weaken in the face of intense competition from the rival Apple iPhone and devices using Google's Android operating system.

In January, RIM promoted Thorsten Heins to the leadership role, a position that is earning him $10.2 million for the company's 2012 financial year. THE CANADIAN PRESS

.com. Big brands targeting domain name suffixes

Amazon.com wants ".joy," Google wants ".love" and L'Oreal wants ".beauty."

Big brands are behind hundreds of proposals for new Internet addresses, including scores for generic terms such as "cruise," ".kids" and ".tires."

If approved, Amazon could use ".author" in an attempt to dominate online bookselling, while Google could use ".love" to collect registration fees from its rivals. Amazon and Google also are vying for ".app" and ".music," while the wine company Gallo Vineyards Inc. wants ".barefoot."

It's all part of the largest expansion of the Internet address system since its creation in the 1980s, a process likely to cause headaches for some companies while creating vast opportunities for others.

The organization in charge of Internet addresses, the Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers, announced the proposals for Internet suffixes Wednesday. A suffix is the ".com" part in a domain name.

The bids now go through a review that could take months or years. Up to 1,000 suffixes could be added each year. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The numbers

There were 1,930 proposals for 1,409 different suffixes. About 100 were for suffixes in non-English characters, including Chinese, Arabic and Thai.

Cable technicians going on strike, union says

The union representing 200 technicians who service Rogers Communications Inc. customers in Ontario say they will go on strike on Friday at 8 a.m.

The union has said one of the key issues is that employees are paid on a piece-work system, which creates financial instability. The union accused both Intek and DHT of refusing to bargain. Bank of Canada warns of fallout from EU crisis

A nation exposed. Federal regulatory body puts Canadians on alert

The Bank of Canada continues to warn that the high level of household debt and overvalued real estate in this country have left the economy vulnerable if a financial shock erupts in Europe.

In its financial system review identifying risks to the economy, the bank noted certain segments of the housing market that have a persistent oversupply — such as condos in Toronto — face a higher risk of a price correction.

Using a hypothetical stress test, the bank says a three per cent increase in unemployment — about the same as occurred in the recent recession — would almost triple the proportion of indebted households that would go into arrears.

The current rate is currently about half a per cent and could rise 1.3 per cent under that scenario.

A shock would also cut into net worth of Canadians. The bank points out that 40 per cent of household worth is tied to the value of their real estate holdings, compared to only 34 per cent a decade ago.

While the report does not attempt to place odds on the chance of a Europe-centred shock, it judges the risks as "very high."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

The ripple effect

The central bank concluded that the risks of a European financial meltdown could ripple around the world.

- Diminished growth. Rock-bottom interest rates would further erode the positions of life insurance companies and pension plans and boost household borrowing.
- A negative feedback loop. What the central bank is describing is a scenario almost identical to what happened in 2008 when the world was plunged into the worst downturn since the Great Depression.

Phone-hacking. British PM goes on the defensive

A confident and unruffled Prime Minister David Cameron on Thursday defended his ill-fated decision to make disgraced tabloid editor Andy Coulson his communications director, even though the news executive had already been tarnished in Britain's phone-hacking scandal.

The leader also defended the conduct of Culture Secretary Jeremy Hunt and the decision to put him in charge of judging Rupert Murdoch's controversial bid to take full control of the lucrative BSkyB broadcasting company.

In sworn testimony before a U.K. media ethics inquiry, Cameron said he chose Coulson for the key communications post because he wanted a tough man to implement his media strategy in a demanding, 24/7 news environment. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WALKING A FINE LINE

THE LIST
Mike Benhaim
Metro

1 Buyer beware: Céline Dion's 19-acre Île Gagnon retreat is the most expensive property ever listed on the Quebec housing market. The Normandy-style château is listed at almost $30 million, but rumour has it they may trade it straight up for Spain.

2 Not cool: Last weekend, an Ontario couple allegedly left their dog in a car with no water in 30 C heat. The dog died, and the owners face a $2,000 fine, six months of jail time, or 18 hours in a sauna.

3 Tall tales: Friday, Nik Wallenda will attempt to cross the Niagara Gorge on a tightrope. Offspring of the legendary Flying Wallendas have been bred into death-defying feats for almost two centuries. Despite meticulous training, several have actually been killed or left disabled performing these acts. Someone in my family tripped on their shoelace in 1978, and the rest of us have been wearing loafers ever since. Just sayin'.

4 Set your PVRs: CBC's newest reality show will feature auditions to play Dorothy in Andrew Lloyd Webber's production of The Wizard of Oz, which hits Toronto's Ed Mirvish Theatre in December. Girls will compete for a chance to wear the ruby slippers on the cleverly entitled Over the Rainbow, where they will sing (you guessed it) Over the Rainbow. Another innovative gem from our federally funded friends at the CBC.

5 Dallas: TNT's revival of one of the most popular '80s shows is a success. With a good-looking new cast and a few originals, there probably won't be a "Who shot J.R.?" cliffhanger this time around. A more likely ending would be "Who slipped J.R. a Viagra?"

6 Papillon: A study at Yale University recently revealed that female butterflies preferred males with flashier wings. Erica Westerman, the study's lead author, says, "The male did not have to court them or engage in flashy behaviour. There is a bias in what females learn.... Extra ornamentation is better." Is this a metaphor?

7 Rock of Ages: The star-studded film version of the successful play debuts Friday. A safe choice for viewers who enjoy a good soundtrack. As I said two years ago when the play opened, you can expect your "run-of-the-mill, guitar-grinding, drum-thumping, head-banging, cross-gender, glam-metal, '80s rebel rock." Who among us can't relate to that?

8 Righteous rockers: This week in 1964, the Rolling Stones were touring in the U.S. when they were reminded of a show that had been booked a year earlier. The band had to fly back to the U.K. to perform at Oxford's Magdalen College for £100 ($160). Despite increased rates and demand, the gentlemen honoured their obligation. Airfare cost them £2,500 ($4,000).

9 Three words: This weekend we pay homage to the men who raised us, taught us right from wrong, picked us up when we fell and snuck us a treat when mom said "No." Some left abruptly and some suffered far too long, but if your dad is around today, pick up the phone and tell him you love him, or head on over and give him a hug. It's better than a tie or that awful cologne, and will last a whole lot longer. Happy Father's Day.

'Vampire' skeleton on display in Bulgaria

A skeleton dating back to the Middle Ages and recently unearthed in the town of Sozopol is displayed at the National History Museum in Sofia, Bulgaria, on Thursday.

Ever since archaeologists announced last week that they had found two ancient skeletons in Bulgaria with iron rods thrust through their chests, the media have been reporting how Bulgarians once did that to prevent the dead from emerging from the grave as vampires. On Saturday, one of those skeletons will be put on display at the National History Museum, and its director, Bozhidar Dimitrov, says he expects there to be a big turnout.

Dimitrov said Thursday that some people who were believed to have led evil lives were treated that way when they were buried in parts of Bulgaria as recently as the beginning of the last century.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This 700-year-old skeleton was stabbed in the chest with an iron rod and had his teeth pulled before being put to rest. The media have reported that because vampire tales remain popular in Balkan countries, some people in the Black Sea resort of Sozopol, where the skeletons were found in a graveyard, are having trouble sleeping at night.

Synopsis

Adam Sandler plays Donny Berger, a party animal who, at age 13, engaged in extra-curricular activities with his homeroom teacher. When their lovemaking interrupted the graduation ceremony, she was sent to jail, and he was left to raise their baby Han Solo Berger (Andy Samberg), with disastrous results. Cut to present day. Father and son are estranged, and Donny's glory days are behind him. He needs $43,000 to pay off taxes or he's going to jail. He turns to the one person he knows might have the money, his son, now a wealthy businessman on the eve of getting married.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Sandler keeps sinking

That's My Boy. It looks like Adam Sandler has finally gone from tiresome to just embarrassing

Richard: Mark, I felt like I witnessed something special tonight. But not special in a good way. Tonight we sat through That's My Boy and I can't help but think that what we saw wasn't so much a movie, but more some kind of performance art where people who should know better do awful things and charge you 10 bucks to watch.

I hope this is some kind of postmodern art project, 'cuz a comedy it ain't. What did you think?

Mark: I didn't laugh, but I didn't expect to. What can you say about a movie that tries to resurrect Vanilla Ice's career, and almost succeeds?

You may call it performance art, but that would only be accurate if someone actually performed in this pastiche. I don't know what irritated me more: Sandler's sketch acting style, Andy Samberg's unfunny, wussy role, the pedophilia and incest motifs, or the desperate, forced "edginess" of the movie.

You're right about the movie being "special" — like a train wreck, I couldn't look away. At least I wasn't bored, although I spent a lot of time wishing I were.

RC: I think Adam Sandler has finally turned the corner from tiresome to embarrassing. It's hard to imagine a lazier rehashing of all the man-children he has played in the past.

There's shades of Mr. Deeds, Billy Madison and Happy Gilmore here, all topped off with a grating New England character voice that sounds like a cross between a can opener opening a can of Boston Baked Beans and screeching tires.

MB: I kept asking myself: would this movie be more palatable if Sandler dropped the grating accent? And then I went one step further and recast the role with Steve Carell in the lead and you know what? It would still smell. Richard, you call Sandler's character a lazy rehash, but the whole movie is dripping in '80s and '90s nostalgia — probably the decades when Sandler's comedy made most sense. Can you pick a scene or actor in this mess that stood above the rest of it? Mine would have to be the scene set in the upscale mens' spa.

RC: No one escapes this movie unsullied. Also, what does Adam Sandler have against The Godfather?

First he debases Pacino in Jack & Jill, and now James Caan. It's a good thing Brando is gone.

MB: I just emailed Robert Duvall telling him to watch out. Sandler's obviously working his way down the list.

Streep gives props to Davis

They may have been Oscar rivals earlier this year, but there's nothing but love between Meryl Streep and Viola Davis. Streep, who ended Davis' awards run for The Help by winning the lead actress Oscar for The Iron Lady, lauded her friend and colleague Tuesday at Women in Film's annual Crystal + Lucy Awards. She called Davis "a lion-hearted woman" and a gifted and determined actress.

Brave offers up a Disney princess like none you've ever seen before

New direction.
Rookie director Mark Andrews talks about how audiences expect something different from Pixar heroines

NED EHRBAR
scene@metronews.ca

Set in ancient Scotland, Pixar's new animated feature film Brave stars Kelly Macdonald as the voice of bold, free-thinking Princess Merida. HANDOUT

First-time feature director Mark Andrews knows a thing or two about pressure. While he's been a longtime Pixar team member — and director Brad Bird's right-hand man — the task of taking on Brave, the animation studio's latest feature, was more than a little daunting. And it doesn't help that he had to step in for original director Brenda Chapman. But Andrews loves a challenge almost as much as he loves Scotland, where the tale takes place.

Scotland seems like such a mystical place, with each location having some sort of myth to it.

It is, it is. Everything had a story. Nothing didn't have a story. Every creek and branch and thing. But that was their culture, sharing these stories, and you knew these locations because you had to make them memorable — or stuff actually did happen there. In developing the film, we wanted that aspect in there that every character is telling a story or knows a story, or there's a story about everything that's happening in Brave, so you get story upon story upon story upon story, interwoven in the actual movie.

Did you have any mystical run-ins yourself there?

On my honeymoon, we were in a hotel in Oban, and right on the counter there's a big thing with newspaper articles on it, from way back when, about this hotel's history. I'm just flipping through, and all of a sudden I go, "Oh my God, ghost in room 216." And just as I read this, the clerk hands us over our keys to room 215. I'm all, "Oh crap." The ghost only shows herself to women to warn women away from men. The ghost is the ghost of a woman who killed herself jumping out of a window because the man she was in love with, that was the last night there in that room, he goes off to sea, doesn't tell her when he comes back that he met somebody else. So she's waiting there for him to rendezvous, but he never returns so she offed herself. So the ghost replays their last night together, that argument, and rearranges the furniture in the room back to how it was back in the day. So the maids keep coming in and going, "Ah, the ghost..."

You've got to be aware that when you make a movie with Disney about a princess, there will be inevitable comparisons.

We're the bastard child of Disney — don't put that down. We're conscious of it in the sense that yeah, she's a princess, but why is she a princess? (story-wise), there's more catastrophe that can happen. She can't just be a selfish milkmaid who can run off and marry somebody, right? We're all, "I don't care about that. Let 'em marry somebody." But here's this person, this character that doesn't want to do that stuff. "Um, lady, you're going to be a queen someday. You're going to have to step up." So we get those stakes. But it quickly turns and goes away from that idea and that concept. So it's just a very superficial concept, but because it's so easy and somebody says princess and Disney and thinks that's all that movie is, great. Let them think that. Never try and outguess us.

Since you came into this project already in progress, how involved were you with casting?

The only person that I got to cast was Kelly Macdonald. We had Reese Witherspoon on it, she was great, but the movie was taking so long and she had other things that she had to do down there. When I got on, we were going to do a whole 'nother year or so with her, and she was all, "I've got these other movies, and that commitment does not work out." So, scheduling conflicts, she had to leave us, sadly. So I'm going, "Great. I get on and I have no main character. What am I going to do?" Well, I started looking for a main character, and fast — by Monday — because we were flying. We found Kelly Macdonald, and she was available and gung-ho, and she's great. I didn't know who the hell she was at all, so just hearing her and seeing little clips, I was thinking, "I don't know, can she do this kind of comedy? Can she do this kind of character?" And then talking to her and stuff and hearing her read some lines, I was like, "She's going to be great!"

Musical

Rock of Ages

Director. Adam Shankman

Stars. Tom Cruise, Alec Baldwin, Russell Brand

Borrowed from Broadway, Rock of Ages takes the '80s hair-band-hit musical and turns it into a celebrity sing-a-long that's as shallow as Poison lyrics. Assembled by Adam Shankman (Hairspray) and featuring Tom Cruise (who can sing!) and Alec Baldwin (who can't), it wedges in a pencil-thin romance between two struggling singers. It aims to be nothin' but a good time, but when Cruise isn't strutting around ambiguously imitating Axl Rose, the story is tediously banal. STEVE GOW

Drama

Foreverland

Director. Max McGuire

Stars. Max Thieriot, Laurence Leboeuf, Demián Bichir

Most 21-year-olds don't shop for their own coffin, but Will (Thieriot) isn't like most 21-year-olds. Born with cystic fibrosis, Will has a bleak outlook on life. When a childhood friend loses his battle with the disease, Will is tasked with delivering his ashes to a mythologized healing shrine in Mexico. As Will heads down south he (predictably) begins to open up to life's possibilities. Even if it feels a bit contrived, Foreverland is an entertaining road-trip movie with a message. REGAN REID

Drama

The Woman in the 5th

Director. Pawel Pawlikowski

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Kristin Scott Thomas

For a thriller, The Woman in the 5th doesn't deliver as much frenzy as it does frustration. Ethan Hawke plays an American writer who returns to Paris to reunite with his estranged daughter and ends up in a tryst with a cryptic widow. While the engaging performances enchant, the drama leaves its murky ends loose and the wandering storyline will rattle fans looking for a conventional mystery. STEVE GOW

Comedy

Safety Not Guaranteed

Director. Colin Treverrow

Stars. Aubrey Plaza, Mark Duplass

Based very loosely on a real classified ad seeking fellow time travellers, Safety Not Guaranteed focuses on a group of magazine upstarts investigating the ad's eccentric author. Aubrey Plaza (TV's Parks and Recreation) and filmmaker/actor Mark Duplass (Cyrus) as the would-be explorer give the film a sweet, resonant likeability, but the alluring peculiar plot loses punch with an overly sentimental finale. STEVE GOW

Comedy

Lola Versus

Director. Daryl Wein

Stars. Greta Gerwig, Zoe Lister Jones, Hamish Linklater

At 29, everything seems to be going right for Lola (Gerwig). That is, until her fiancee calls off their wedding. Newly single and relegated to her old bachelorette pad, the film follows Lola as she attempts to put her life back together. But just like Lola's love life, the film is disappointing. The jokes often fall flat, the characters aren't fully fleshed out and Gerwig's performance is mediocre at best. REGAN REID

Documentary

Kivalina vs. Exxon

Director. Ben Addelman

Named after a lawsuit that pits an Alaskan village against the giants of the energy industry, Kilvalina vs. Exxon aims to put a human face on the effects of global warming. Faced with erosion of its shoreline and contamination of its drinking water, the village of 400 is seeking relocation and hopes the U.S. government will pay. While it starts out strong, director Ben Addelman soon finds himself with too many story lines to follow, yet never dedicates himself to one narrative. The result is an undercooked film that paints a picture, but never really gets to the nut of any issue. IAN GORMELY

The Maldives will someday disappear — the rising sea levels caused by climate change threaten the country's very existence. After fighing for democracy in the Maldives and winning a fair election, President Mohamed Nasheed was then forced to take on the climate change crisis. "It won't be any good to have democracy," he explains, "if we don't have a country." The Artist is Present

Director. Matthew Akers

Stars. Marina Abramović

Serbian-born New Yorker Marina Abramović's 40-year career as a performance artist begins as many such careers do: at a passionate pitch and at times over the top. Abramović is an iconoclast who risked her physical and emotional health to express herself — being ritualistically slapped, bumped into, carved, threatened and whipped. At 63, now calling herself "the grandmother of performance art," Abramović stages her least shocking, most profound and gruelling show, interacting wordlessly and tearfully with fans at MoMA. ANNE BRODIE

Thriller

388 Arletta Avenue

Director. Randall Cole

Stars. Nick Stahl, Mia Kirshner

Yet another found footage thriller, 388 Arletta Avenue is a Canadian feature that owes Paranormal Activity. In it, Nick Stahl (Terminator 3) and Mia Kirshner (Exotica) give decent turns as a troubled Toronto couple who begin to suspect that someone is watching them. A voyeuristic villain has installed hidden cameras around their home, car and office and the split-screen narrative we see is cobbled from those images. With no score, stilted dialogue and slow burn pacing, 388 Arletta Avenue's greatest failure is that it's dreadfully boring. CHRIS ALEXANDER

Surreal comedy makes apocalypse funny somehow

From doing heroin to destroying property. Seeking a Friend for the End of the World is a comic look at how people react to death

STEVE GOW

When Armageddon comes, Lorene Scafaria will likely be found listening to music and dreaming of lost love.

"I'm very much a Penny," admitted the filmmaker about the Keira Knightley character in her new movie Seeking a Friend for the End of the World. "I'd probably be too flaky to get my act together, yet I'd want to so badly."

In the apocalyptic comedy, Knightley and Steve Carell pair up as a giant asteroid brings end times to Earth, which does not seem tragic.

"Death is surreal," said Scafaria of her comic vision of humanity coping with inevitable catastrophe through everything from doing heroin at dinner parties to destroying property. "I talked to some people who said they would go to work because they wouldn't know where else to go … making decisions on how to spend your last three weeks just always seemed comical to me."

Expect some Party Rockin' at the MMVAs

LMFAO. Redfoo and Sky Blu are set to host the MuchMusic Video Awards on Sunday

IAN GORMELY
scene@metronews.ca

"Party" and "rocks" are both words regularly used to describe the MuchMusic Video Awards. But the nation's music station decided to make it official this year by having party rocking experts LMFAO host their annual shindig on Sunday night.

Despite never having hosted an awards show, the duo — made up of Redfoo and Sky Blu — weren't the least bit surprised when the offer came their way. "I'm surprised more entities don't have us doing more of this stuff," says Redfoo, on the phone from the band's Houston stop on their current Party Rockin' Tour.

Based in Los Angeles, LMFAO (an acronym for Laughed My F*cking Ass Off) found fame via their brash mix of house beats, pop hooks, dance moves and an ostentatious wardrobe. Their stupidly catchy singles Party Rock Anthem and Sexy and I Know It both hit No. 1 in Canada and the U.S.

And while their sound and lyrics certainly have roots in club culture their crossover appeal is what they believe enticed Much into offering them the gig. "The demographic that they want to tune in is our same fan base," say Redfoo. "And especially now, with a lot of the kids listening to LMFAO and having fun with the videos, the parents now are fans."

The pair logged time riffing on camera for the Grammy's Red Carpet, but Redfoo says the MMVAs are a far more structured event. "Me and Sky are always on," he says, "we're always improving and having fun. That's what we do. So it's about capturing the best of that with some guidelines."

MuchMusic organizers have been in regular communication with the band, hammering out a script that allows the two musician's personalities to shine without derailing the show's momentum, or breaking CRTC rules. They're also doing their own research in preparation for the show. "There is certain inside Canadian humour," he says. "I have to learn these things. I'm on Wikipedia understanding where the maple syrup came from."

THE 2012 MMVAS RED CARPET SPECIAL STARTS SUNDAY AT 8 P.M. ET, FOLLOWED BY THE AWARDS SHOW AT 9 P.M. ET ON MUCHMUSIC AND FUSE.

Scarlett Johansson gets a lot of attention for her beauty, but it's not something she's exactly thrilled about.

"I don't like being labelled as 'the sexiest woman alive.' As an actress I prefer to maintain the anonymity," Johansson says in an interview with Grazia Italia.

And as for being a role model for other women? She'd rather not.

"There are so many wonderful women out there," Johansson says.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

MONICA WEYMOUTH
scene@metronews.ca

At first, things seemed pretty nice and tidy with the Chris Brown and Drake brawl that broke out early Thursday morning at Manhattan nightclub W.i.P.

Both hip-hop stars have dated Rihanna in the past, both have a habit of gossiping in pop songs, and one has a history of anger management problems: Case closed.

But now, Drake's people are telling TMZ that the rapper wasn't responsible for the gash on Chris Brown's face that popped up on Twitter Thursday morning.

"Drake did not participate in any wrongdoing of any kind last night at W.i.P," his rep tells the site.

"He was on his way out of the club when the altercation began."

Another source claims that Philly rapper Meek Mill was the one with the problem, and hit Brown with a bottle after a shouting match. No arrests were made, and all of the boldface names were gone by the time police arrived sometime after 4 a.m.

Brown, for one, seems to back up at least the bottle part. His Twitter feed has since been airbrushed by publicists, but at one point after the incident read, "How u party wit rich n* that hate? Lol... Throwing bottles like girls? #shameonya!"

Well, someone is certainly getting left out of the Cheesecake Factory mall trip this weekend. As soon as a nasty note surfaces on the bathroom wall, we're going to call it: Lamest hip-hop fight ever.

Talk about a friendly divorce: No prenup for Cox, Arquette

In possibly the most amicable split in Hollywood history, Courteney Cox reportedly filed her divorce paper the same day as soon-to-be ex-husband David Arquette, also citing irreconcilable differences, according to TMZ.

Like Arquette, Cox is seeking joint custody of their daughter and no spousal support, and she will represent herself in the proceedings.

The biggest discovery is that the couple, married for 11 years before separating in 2010, did not have a prenup, so all of their community property will be divided equally.

Cox is worth a reported $75 million, while Arquette is said to be worth $18 million.

3 LIFE

Safety first

Cooking to perfection

- Use an instant-read thermometer to check if meat is finished rather than cutting into it because the natural juices will escape.
- Cook food thoroughly — cooking times and temperatures vary for different meat and poultry.
- Whole poultry should be fully cooked at 82 C (180 F), burgers at a minimum of 71 C (160 F) and beef, veal and lamb roasts and steaks can vary from 63 C (145 F) for medium-rare to 77 C (170 F) for well done.
- When cooking in advance, divide large portions of food into small, shallow containers for refrigeration to ensure safe, rapid cooling.
- Keep cold food cold and hot food hot until it's served. You can keep cooked meats hot by setting them to the side or upper tray of the barbecue grill.
- The refrigerator should be set at 4 C (40 F) or colder and the freezer at -18 C (0 F) or colder.

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

My dad isn't much of a drinker. He's more of a six-pack of beer a year and a sip of wine if the occasion insists type than a trained professional like me.

He does have a slight liquid Achilles' heel when it comes to single malt scotch though, which makes Father's Day gifting a no brainer.

Not a blend of different whiskies, single malts are made from a single grain (barley) and a single water source by a single distillery. All that singularity means a glass of this style of scotch comes jam packed with personality, some of which can be pretty over the top.

Islay is Scotland's southernmost island and its small group of distilleries creates the most aggressive whiskies in the world.

Laphroaig 10 Year Old ($70.20 - $84.99) is arguably the nastiest (in a good way). Boozy and medicinal with a pounding palate of peat, iodine and a touch of sea spray; it's a rambunctious malt that may pose a challenge for those who prefer lighter whiskies.

Here's a tip: Try adding a splash of spring water to your next glass of single malt. It helps round out the forward flavours and accentuates the aromas.

Mesquite-Grilled Cheeseburgers with Warm Chipotle Salsa.

These aren't your typical barbecue bites

This recipe makes four burgers. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

Ingredients

4 portions
Ideal grill: Charcoal
Smoke intensity: Strong
Prep time: 20 minutes
Cooking time: 20 minutes

- 750 g (1 1/2 lb) ground chuck (80 per cent lean)
- 10 ml (2 tsp) ground cumin
- 7 ml (1 1/2 tsp) ground black pepper
- Kosher salt
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) extra-virgin olive oil, divided
- 1 small red onion, finely chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 4 plum tomatoes, each cut in half lengthwise
- 2 large handfuls mesquite wood chips, soaked in water for at least 30 minutes
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) finely chopped fresh cilantro leaves
- 1 canned chipotle chili pep per in adobo sauce, minced
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) fresh lime juice
- 4 slices smoked cheddar or smoked Gouda cheese, each about 30 g (1 oz)
- 4 hamburger rolls

The basic two-zone fire is an efficient charcoal arrangement for a wide variety of foods. It combines both direct heat (where the food cooks directly above the coals) and indirect heat (where the foods cook above and to the side of the coals).

1. In a large bowl, gently combine beef, cumin, pepper and 7 ml (1 1/2 tsp) salt. Shape into 4 patties of equal size, each about 2 cm (3/4 inch) thick. With your thumb or the back of a spoon, make a shallow indentation about 2.5 cm (1 inch) wide in the centre of each patty. This will help the patties cook evenly and prevent them from puffing on the grill. Cover and refrigerate until ready to cook.

2. Prepare a two-zone fire for high heat (230 C/450 F to 290 C/550 F).

3. In a medium skillet over medium heat, warm 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the oil. Add onion and garlic and cook until onion is tender, about 3 minutes, stirring occasionally. Transfer to a medium bowl. Brush tomatoes with remaining 30 ml (1 tbsp) of oil.

4. Brush cooking grate clean. Drain and add half of the wood chips to the charcoal and put the lid on the grill. When smoke appears, place tomato halves, cut side up, over indirect high heat. Close lid and cook until tomato juices are bubbling and the skins split, about 12 minutes. Remove from grill. Remove and discard tomato skins and roughly chop tomatoes. Add tomatoes, cilantro, chili and lime juice to onion mixture. Season with salt. Set aside.

5. Drain and add remaining wood chips to charcoal and put lid on the grill. When wood starts to smoke, cook patties over direct high heat, with lid closed as much as possible, until cooked to medium doneness, 8 to 10 minutes, turning once. Just Opened: FARMHOUSE Tavern

Opening just last week at 1627 Dupont St., Farmhouse Tavern is a quaint new resto rooted in the charming influences of the rural Ontario farmhouse. They were featured on an episode of Junk Raiders for the space's build, and are cooking a blackboard menu of farm-driven food. Cool notes: Sunday nights have $1 oysters at 9 p.m., and 1/2 price food at 10 p.m.

Opening Tonight: Barhop Bar

A new craft beer bar is opening up tonight on King West, promising three staples: beer, food, life. Since we often equate the first two as being a large parcel of the third, we think that's pretty notable. With 24 beers on tap, another 50 or so by the bottle or can, and some great haute grub like mussels, osso buco, and beeramisu, Barhop is set to heat up 391 King Street W.

Just Opened: Dine on 3

In a similar move as last year's Eaton Centre unveiling of the gourmand food court Urban Eats, Yorkdale Mall just launched Dine on 3, their $35-million renovated eatery space. This food oasis features some of the usual suspects, but goes far beyond the extra mile with stand alone, licensed restaurants like Famoso Neapolitan Pizza. Yorkdale finally has a food court worthy of its status.

Just Opened: La Carnita

In a move that excited all foodies city-wide, La Carnita announced a permanent location — it was a pop-up model before — a couple months ago, and just this past Tuesday they officially opened at 501 College St. Serving up gourmet tacos — like the pollo frito with peanut mole sauce, and the crispy avocado with frijoles — La Carnita is set to give Grand Electric a run for their money.

The victories, a spirited 1-0 win in Cuba and 0-0 home draw against Honduras, has placed Canada second in CONCACAF Group C, trailing Panama, which has collected six points in two matches.
Now Canada sits idle before resuming the quest for a Brazil 2014 berth with a match in Toronto against Panama on Sept. 7.

Heat steal Thunder's home-court advantage

NBA. Miami can win finals over next three games on its floor

Game 2

Heat	Thunder
100	96

LeBron James asked for help, Dwyane Wade and Chris Bosh provided it.

The Miami Heat finally rediscovered the formula to winning in the NBA finals — barely.

James scored 32 points, Wade rebounded from a poor opener with 24 and the Heat built a huge early lead before holding off a furious fourth-quarter rally behind their three all-stars to beat the Oklahoma City Thunder 100-96 on Thursday night to tie the series at one game apiece.

Bosh had 16 points and 15 rebounds in his return to the starting lineup for the Heat, who snapped a four-game finals losing streak with their first victory since Game 3 against Dallas last year.

"We've been down. We've withstood rallies. The good thing about it, when they scored, we didn't get our head down. We just got back on offence and started to execute," James said. "It's a great team that we're going against. So we're going to need every effort, every play and it's going to take all the way down to zeroes on that clock to get a win."

Now they go home to host Game 3 on Sunday and the next two after that, knowing they don't have to hear the noisy Thunder fans again — not to mention all their critics — if they win all three.

Kevin Durant scored 32 points for the Thunder, but missed a shot after appearing to be bumped that would have tied a game the Thunder trailed the entire way. Russell Westbrook finished with 27 points, eight rebounds and seven assists, but shot 10 of 25 from the field.

It was the first home loss in 10 post-season games for the Thunder, who had overcome a 13-point deficit in Game 1.

Ray has quiet night in debut for Argonauts

CFL. Former Edmonton Eskimos quarterback not concerned after first pre-season game

His first two passes as a Toronto Argonaut were knocked down by Hamilton defenders. Then Ricky Ray threw an incomplete toss to receiver Spencer Watt.

In fact, he needed four attempts before he completed his first pass with his new team, a 15-yard catch by rookie Patrick Carter.

Wednesday night's exhibition game at Ivor Wynne Stadium was anything but a dynamic aerial debut for the former Edmonton Eskimos quarterback whom Argo Nation has pinned its Grey Cup hopes on this season.

But neither Ray nor head coach Scott Milanovich was concerned.

"That's always the trick being a quarterback. It's getting used to the speed of the game. In practice, you know you're not getting hit back there so you feel you can hold onto the ball a little bit longer," said Ray, who played the entire first quarter and two minutes of the second in a game that the Argos would go on to win 29-24.

Ricky Ray during game action on Wednesday. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Ray finished with five completions in eight attempts for 72 yards but was able to direct two scoring drives, one- and two-yard TD runs by tailback Cory Boyd that gave the Boatmen an early 14-0 lead. Both scoring drives of 48 and 72 yards were helped by Hamilton penalties that kept his drives going, including a pass interference call and a roughing the passer infraction.

"I missed a couple of throws earlier. We just couldn't get into a rhythm. Then finally we started," said Ray, whose longest pass went to slotback Chad Owens for 20 yards. "It takes a couple of hits to get yourself into the game. We were able to finish our drives with touchdowns, which was big for us.

"That's what this offence is going to be all about. It's completions and moving the chains and establishing that rhythm and putting good drives together."

To be fair, some of Ray's best weapons were missing as Jason Barnes, Maurice Mann and Andrew Durie were sidelined with minor injuries. It's unknown whether any will be ready for Tuesday's pre-season game against the Montreal Alouettes at the Rogers Centre.

Players spent Thursday watching the game film. They'll practise Friday with some cuts coming by Sunday morning.

MLB. Cain pitches San Francisco franchise's first perfect game

Matt Cain tossed and turned and managed all of about four hours of sleep following his history-making gem for the Giants.

Perfectly understandable.

Cain's perfect game will be remembered among the most masterful pitching performances in regular-season baseball history, if not ever.

San Francisco's ace right-hander dominated the Houston Astros every which way Wednesday night in a 10-0 win for the 22nd perfect game ever and the fifth no-hitter already this year.

He struck out a career-best 14 batters, making up more than half of his 27 straight outs and tying Sandy Koufax for most Ks in a perfecto. Cain (8-2) threw 19 first-pitch strikes and never faced a 2-0 count in winning his career-high seventh straight start.

"I'm still pumped," said Cain, who was back on the field playing catch with fellow starter Madison Bumgarner by 10:15 a.m. Thursday after a workout. "I haven't really had a ton of time to sit down and look over stuff, see how it all happened. I don't know that it has hit me yet, maybe when I can sit down and watch the highlights, go over the game."

Add in a pair of improbable catches by Melky Cabrera and Gregor Blanco to preserve the bid, and Cain wound up with the first perfect game in the franchise's storied 130-year history and its 14th no-hitter.

San Francisco Giants pitcher Matt Cain celebrates pitching a perfect game against the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

JEFF CHIU/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was the third this month, as Cain joined the Mets' Johan Santana and a combined no-no by Seattle's staff.

He threw 125 pitches — most ever in a perfect game — and 86 of those for strikes. Seven of his strikeouts were called. He didn't shake off catcher Buster Posey even once. They were in sync on this memorable evening, all right.

Cain followed up Bumgarner's 12-strikeout night Tuesday, and they became the first Giants pitchers to record consecutive double-digit strikeout games since Vida Blue and John Montefusco in May 1978.

"Things like this bring a team together even more," San Francisco skipper Bruce Bochy said. "That's the first one I've seen. It was an incredible night. Matt was going about it like a normal game. That last at-bat he sprinted to first base and I yelled, 'Hey, take it easy.' But he always plays the game hard."

NBA. Highly-regarded prospects work out for Raptors

With less than two weeks now left until the NBA draft, it's getting close to the time the Raptors would like to be weeding out pretenders from contenders for the eighth pick, should they not find an amenable trade to make.

On Thursday they saw three significant players who present quite different stories.

Connecticut guard Jeremy Lamb, trying to dispel rumours he's not tough enough to survive in the NBA, was briefly part of a morning workout session, rolling his ankle early and shutting down for the day.

Duke guard Austin Rivers, one of the more publicly confident players in the draft, waxed eloquently about Toronto.

North Carolina forward Harrison Barnes was, according to sources, the best player to work out, but it's a stretch to think he's a legitimate prospect at No. 8.

For Rivers, though, the order of the draft doesn't appear to be all that important.

"It shouldn't be about how high you go, it should be where you go, really," he said last week in Chicago. "If you can go seven to somewhere great and that's better than going four to somewhere bad, then that's the case."

Any of those three — along with Weber State guard Damian Lillard and Syracuse guard Dion Waiters — would be OK fits.

The most significant need now is at small forward but there are few worthy candidates expected to be available and team president Bryan Colangelo said at the draft lottery he wouldn't be adverse to drafting a player who plays a position that the Raptors may be satisfied with.

The Raptors, who also have the 37th and 56th picks, have workouts scheduled for the rest of this week but have seen most of the top-rated players.

Irish find no luck against Spaniards

Euro 2012. Ireland eliminated from tournament

Group C

Spain	Ireland

Spain's dazzling ball control, dizzying passing game and deluge of shots were way too much for Ireland.

Fernando Torres scored a goal in each half, and David Silva and substitute Cesc Fabregas added the others as Spain beat Ireland 4-0 and eliminated the Irish from the European Championship with its most lopsided loss in 41 years.

Spain, which leads Group C along with Croatia with four points, dominated the tempo and scoring opportunities through its quick combinations and precise passing. The defending champions completed an incredible 779 passes and took 26 shots — 20 of them on goal — in a performance that put it on course for a spot in the quarterfinals.

Torres, who scored in the Euro 2008 final, put Spain ahead early after dispossessing Richard Dunne inside the area and scurrying past Stephen Ward before sending an angled shot over goalkeeper Shay Given in the fourth minute.

Torres started over Fabregas as the world champions reverted to fielding a traditional striker after the attack was led by six midfielders against Italy. The Chelsea striker showed that a late season turnaround was no fluke as he became Spain's third all-time leading scorer with 30 goals in 95 appearances.

"We wanted to win, to make a better impression than we did against Italy," said Torres, whose team completed three times as many passes as the Irish. "From the first minute we showed the character to win."

Torres' first goal marked the start of Spain's assault on the Irish, who had started well with Simon Cox forcing Spain goalkeeper Iker Casillas into a tricky save in the second minute.

"Unfortunately the goal for the second time after three minutes throws your tactical plan out the window," said Ireland coach Giovanni Trapattoni, whose team also conceded early in a 3-1 loss to Croatia. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Post-match reaction

Given considers future

Ireland goalkeeper Shay Given says his team's early exit from the European Championship following a 4-0 thrashing by Spain could prompt some players to consider retiring from international duty.

Given, 36, says he will think about his own future after Ireland was outclassed Thursday by the defending champions at the PGE Arena. Other key performers like Damien Duff, Richard Dunne and Robbie Keane are also over 30.

Given says his emotions are "very raw" after the team's elimination and thinks there will be "a few players" who might make way for younger players coming through.

Coach Giovanni Trapattoni says he might give the likes of 23-year-old winger James McClean a chance in the final Group C match against Italy. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Italy lets lead, win slip away

Tactics backfire.
Strategy to absorb attack enables Croatia to score the equalizer in 1-1 draw

After all the talk about an attacking approach to football, Italy fell back to its old defensive tactics Thursday — and the price was a costly 1-1 draw with Croatia.

The Italians let a first-half lead slip away and now may need help to advance to the European Championship quarter-finals.

Andrea Pirlo gave the Italians the lead with a curving free kick in the 39th minute, but Mario Mandzukic was left unmarked to equalize for Croatia in the 72nd.

At the start of the second half, Italy rarely threatened, instead choosing to absorb Croatia's attacks. The tactic backfired when Ivan Strinic launched a long pass from the left flank to Mandzukic, who had time to control at the edge of the box and shoot it in off the post.

Italy coach Cesare Prandelli was left wondering if there was a physical problem with his squad.

"After an hour our physical level drops," Prandelli said. "We've got to figure out how to manage our energy in the next match. We're lacking freshness in that phase of the match.

"We (drew) with a very physical and athletic squad, but we played much better (than Croatia)."

Rising star. Mandzukic making a name for himself with 3 goals, tireless effort

CLIVE MASON/GETTY IMAGES

A relative unknown at international level and close to being disowned by his club, Croatia striker Mario Mandzukic is becoming a star of the European Championship.

His three goals in two matches, as well as his tireless endeavour, have given Croatia a real chance of qualifying for the quarter-finals. Mandzukic's equalizer in the 72nd minute on Thursday earned his side a 1-1 draw with Italy and a share of top place in Group C with Spain.

"First, I dreamed of Croatia beating Ireland and me scoring my first goal in the Euros, and then I dreamed of going against (Italy goalkeeper Gianluigi) Buffon to see his eyes and scoring a goal," said Mandzukic.

"My next dream is to see Croatia go to the quarter-finals."

Before Euro 2012, there were doubts that the 26-year-old striker would figure in Croatia's starting lineup. His German club VfL Wolfsburg was making noises of getting rid of him at the right price, thought to be around $10 million. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

England coach. Hodgson to renew acquaintances with Swedish football

Roy Hodgson went to Sweden 36 years ago to become a coach, and he'll get to show what he learned when England plays the Swedes at the European Championship on Friday.

England is looking to build on a 1-1 draw against France in the Group D opener to help its push for the quarter-finals, while Sweden is on the back foot after a 2-1 loss to co-host Ukraine on Monday.

Swedish football gave Hodgson the chance to coach for the first time following an unheralded playing career in England. He brought the 4-4-2 system with him, quickly producing two titles with Halmstad. The style of play was then widely replicated throughout the region.

"He came to Sweden unknown, but became a big name in Sweden because of the way he made the results and took some new influences into Swedish football," Sweden coach Erik Hamren said Thursday. "He is a big name in Sweden and we will never forget what he has done for Swedish football."

Horoscope

Aries | March 21 - April 20. No doubt you have big plans and no doubt you are going places but keep a sense of perspective.

Taurus | April 21 - May 21. You won't lack confidence today but will you match it with common sense? If you don't, you could find that something you expected to go right goes wrong at the last minute.

Gemini | May 22 - June 20. You will be inspired to try something new today. Whether your sense of adventure is a good thing remains to be seen.

Cancer | June 21 - July 22. What you need today is a fresh way of looking at the world around you, and the only way to get that is to ask people for their opinions. Will your ego allow it? It should.

Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. You are sure to have a brilliant idea today but you would be wise to get a second opinion before you put it into effect.

Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. There is no limit to what you can achieve now but there is a danger that you will take too much for granted and make a silly mistake.

Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. A lot of things don't seem to make much sense at the moment but does it matter? Life is and always will be a mystery. That's what makes it interesting.

Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. You may have something worthwhile to say but that does not mean everyone you interact with is going to believe you, or even want to hear your message.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. You may not be thinking clearly at the moment. So, if there are decisions to be made wait until the Sun changes signs on the 20th.

Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. You know what you want and your confidence is such that the thought of failure has not crossed your mind. That's good. Keep believing.

Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. Do you keep your plans to yourself or do you let everyone know about them? If you are smart, you won't give too much away.

Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. Some of the ideas you come up with today and over the weekend will be remarkable even by your superior standards.
